

You're invited to Saturday Afternoon Tea and Talk at Terrace Hill

The Terrace Hill Partnership is proud to present four distinguished speakers who will bring timely programs to the Carriage House at 2 p.m. each Saturday in February, followed by tea and tasty tidbits. Tickets at the door will be $10 or $25 for a season pass for all four programs. The speakers are donating their time, and all proceeds will go toward the gardens and landscaping at Terrace Hill.

Saturday February 6,
2 p.m. Stephen Orr, a gardener who happens also to be editor in chief of Better Homes and Gardens, will talk about gardening with purpose, whether your interest is cooking, entertaining or cultivating a water feature. A West Texas native, Stephen moved to Des Moines from New York last summer and is already at work on his "south of Grand" garden.

Saturday February 13,
2 p.m. Patrick Phillips-Schrock will take us behind the scenes in the creation of his latest book, The Nixon White House Redecoration and Acquisition Program. Patrick, an Iowa native and resident of Urbandale, is also author of an earlier book, The White House: An Illustrated Architectural History, about which he is considered a foremost world authority.

Saturday February 20,
2 p.m. Martha Henrichs will share her recent Bike and Barge tour of the Netherlands and how she manages her time in retirement from HR at DMACC. Martha, an avid gardener and quilter, volunteers at the Greater Des Moines Botanical Garden where she was recently president of the Friends.

Saturday February 27,
2 p.m. Elvin McDonald will take us behind the scenes as primary consultant for the Emmy-award winning PBS television series "Gardens of the World with Audrey Hepburn." He will show a selection of Audrey's favorite gardens and what she said about her passion for gardens and gardening.
